

Activity: Expert Lecture

Date: 1st October-2014

The department of management studies in its pursuit to adopt the best teaching learning practices of the best B school around the world organized a seminar on the

Topic:- Learning Practices at Harvard Business School

By Mr.Pushkar Kelkar (Regional Sales Manager- HBPS)

The objective the seminar were

- 1) To introduce students of the Teaching Learning practices of the Harvard Business School
- 2) To Teach the students basic steps in case study solving
- 3) To provide a demonstration to the students about the use of various online tools of available for case study solving

It was an interactive session with Mr. Kelker explained the how the case study method came into entrance as a learning tools in the field of management and the way Harvard business school adopted and improvised this tool to the extent that all the top business schools use it as a teaching method Mr. Kelker explained the various features available online for the students that can be used to understated the process of solving case studies he also emphasized the need to develop an systematic approach to solving the case studies

Outcomes

- The Students were inducted to case studies and the usefulness of case study as learning tools
- The students were able to understand the basic process of case study solving.
- The students were able to use the online resources to solve case studies