Some of the unique practices are a)Self-Developed Case Studies b)Activity Based Learning c)Project Based Learning e)Industry- Institute Association f)Association with Professional Bodies in addition to Traditional Teaching- Learning Methodology. Self-Developed Case Studies: Self-Developed Case Studies are case studies developed by students. The institute has not only adopted case study methodology as one of the Teaching-Learning methodologies but has gone a step further by writing its case studies developed, written, edited and published by students.

Activity-Based Learning: Various students driven activities are organized by the Department such as UDAAN- National Level Management Fest, OJT, CSR, Cricket League and the Battlefield. All these activities help students in developing their skills, competence and prepare them to take on the challenges of the business world. However, the Battlefield has been an activity that has been particularly very successful in terms of the learning & the response of the students. Hence it has been adopted as a unique teaching pedagogy by the Department of Management Studies. The Department of Management Studies is a blend of experience and expertise, headed by one of the ablest and experienced Management Professional. The team comprises of expertise & experience from various domains of management like Marketing, Finance, Human Resource, Operations, Industry Relations, General Management, Research & Entrepreneurship Development. The team is well-balanced and adds huge value to the organization and is committed to the cause of enhancing skills, attitude & knowledge of the students

About Seminar:

The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, which was recently approved by the Indian government, aims to overhaul the country's education system and make it more globally competitive. One key aspect of the NEP is the emphasis on industry-institute linkage, which is intended to better align education with the needs of the workforce and the economy. The implementation of the NEP through industry-institute linkage would involve a number of initiatives and changes, such as:

Increased collaboration between educational institutions and industry partners: This would involve setting up industry-led centres of excellence, internships, and apprenticeships for students, as well as joint research and development projects.

Entrepreneurship education: The NEP also calls for increased emphasis on entrepreneurship education and innovation, with the goal of creating a culture of innovation and start-ups in the country. Industry involvement in teacher education: The NEP calls for industry experts to be involved in the design and delivery of teacher education programs.

The NEP's emphasis on industry-institute linkage aims to ensure that the education system is better aligned with the needs of the workforce and the economy, and to promote the development of the skills needed to succeed in the 21st century.

Objective Seminar:

To explore best practices and models for collaboration between educational institutions and industry partners, including joint research and development, internships, and apprenticeships. To share and exchange information on the implementation of curriculum reform and vocational education and training in alignment with industry needs.

To identify the challenges and opportunities of entrepreneurship education and innovation in the context of NEP 2020
