About the Event

The Department of Management Studies (MBA), Sandip Institute of Technology & Research Center, Nashik, organized an Alumni Session on “Business & Management Practices” on 5th October 2026 at 2:00 PM at “D” Building Seminar Hall. The programme was coordinated by Dr. Snehal Bagul, Alumni Co-ordinator, Department of Management Studies, SITRC, Nashik

The session was organized as part of the Department's efforts to strengthen alumni engagement, experiential learning, industry interaction, and practical management education. The session featured Dr. Bhautik Shah, Director, AMIT ENGINEERS, as the resource person.

Alumni sessions provide an important platform for students to interact with professionals who have progressed from academic education to professional and managerial roles. Such interactions enable students to understand the practical relevance of management education and develop a better understanding of the expectations of the business environment.

The theme “Business & Management Practices” was particularly relevant for MBA students as it provided a platform to connect management concepts with business practices and managerial responsibilities.

The Alumni Session on “Business & Management Practices” was organized by the Department of Management Studies with the objective of providing students with practical exposure to the business environment.

The central theme of the session focused on business and management practices, thereby creating an opportunity for students to understand the practical relevance of management education.

The interaction with an alumnus in a leadership position provided students with a platform to connect academic learning with the professional environment. The session was intended to encourage students to look at management not merely as a theoretical discipline but as a practical field requiring decision-making, managerial competence, business understanding, leadership, adaptability, and professional responsibility.

The session also reinforced the importance of alumni engagement in management education. Alumni who have entered professional and business roles can serve as valuable sources of industry exposure, career awareness, professional motivation, and experiential learning for current students.

Major Areas of Learning

The theme of the session enabled students to focus on several important dimensions of business and management, including:

6.1 Business and Management Practices

Students were encouraged to understand management as a practical process involving the application of managerial knowledge in real business situations.

6.2 Practical Application of Management Concepts

The session provided an opportunity for students to connect the concepts learned during their MBA programme with their practical application in organizations.

6.3 Managerial Perspective

Interaction with a professional in a leadership position helped students develop a broader understanding of the responsibilities associated with managerial roles.

6.4 Business-Oriented Thinking

The session encouraged students to develop a business-oriented perspective and understand the importance of looking at organizational activities from a managerial and strategic viewpoint.

6.5 Professional Development

The alumni interaction highlighted the importance of developing professional competencies required for successful careers in management and business.

6.6 Learning from Alumni Experience

The session provided students with the opportunity to learn from the professional journey and experiences of an alumnus, thereby making alumni interaction an important component of experiential learning.

Student Interaction and Engagement

A key feature of the Alumni Session was the opportunity provided to students to interact directly with the resource person.

The interaction created a platform through which students could gain insights into the professional environment and understand the relevance of their MBA education in actual business situations.

The presence of an alumnus who has progressed to the position of Director at AMIT ENGINEERS also provided students with a practical example of professional growth and leadership.

Such interaction can help students:

- Develop greater awareness of the business environment.
- Understand the importance of practical management knowledge.
- Connect classroom learning with organizational practices.
- Develop a professional mindset.
- Understand managerial responsibilities.
- Explore career and professional development opportunities.
- Gain motivation from alumni success and experience.

Outcomes of the Event

The Alumni Session contributed to the following outcomes:

1. Enhanced Practical Understanding

Students gained an opportunity to understand management from a practical and business-oriented perspective.

2. Industry Exposure

The interaction with an industry professional provided students with exposure to the realities of the professional and business environment.

3. Improved Business Awareness

The session encouraged students to develop a broader understanding of business and management practices.

4. Application-Based Learning

Students were encouraged to relate the concepts studied in the MBA curriculum to their practical application in organizations.

5. Development of Managerial Perspective

The session supported the development of managerial thinking and professional orientation among students.

6. Career Motivation

The professional journey of an alumnus in a leadership position served as a source of motivation for current MBA students.

7. Alumni Engagement

The programme strengthened the connection between the Department and its alumni.

8. Industry–Academia Connect

The session contributed to strengthening interaction between academic learning and professional practice.

9. Experiential Learning

Students received an opportunity to learn through direct interaction with an experienced professional rather than relying exclusively on classroom-based theoretical learning.

10. Professional Orientation

The session contributed towards developing awareness of the professional competencies and mindset expected in the business environment.

Relevance to MBA Education

The Alumni Session was highly relevant to the MBA programme as management education requires a balanced combination of conceptual knowledge, practical exposure, professional skills, and industry orientation.

Classroom teaching provides students with theoretical frameworks and management concepts, while alumni interactions provide opportunities to understand how such concepts are relevant in actual organizations.

The theme “Business & Management Practices” directly supported this objective by encouraging students to view management education from a practical business perspective.

Such programmes also support the Department's efforts towards experiential learning and industry–academia interaction, which are important components of contemporary management education.

Conclusion

The Alumni Session on “Business & Management Practices” organized by the Department of Management Studies, SITRC, Nashik, provided an important platform for connecting academic learning with practical business and management perspectives.

The session featuring Dr. Bhautik Shah, Director, AMIT ENGINEERS, offered students an opportunity to interact with an alumnus who has progressed into a leadership position in the professional environment. The programme supported students in developing practical understanding, business awareness, managerial perspective, professional orientation, and career motivation.

The event also strengthened the alumni–student relationship and industry–academia connect of the Department. Such alumni interactions are valuable in helping MBA students understand the practical relevance of management education and prepare themselves for professional responsibilities.

Overall, the Alumni Session was a meaningful initiative towards promoting experiential learning, practical management education, professional development, and continuous alumni engagement.
